Building Team Update

The Building Team has been focused on interior and exterior building safety. An electrical contractor has been engaged to correct lighting problems in the front courtyard and replace lamps in the parking lot with LED lamps to increase illumination. A tree removal service will be removing dead trees along 26th Street. We continue to study and search for cameras to provide surveillance around the exterior of the building. Finally, an active shooter workshop lead by MPD Officer Eric Schilling-Mess is scheduled for March 28 at 5:00pm in the sanctuary. Tenants and leadership members have been invited to attend. Members of the congregation are also welcome.

Finishing touches to the chapel lounge are also underway to complete it for use.

Members of the Building Team include: José Guerrero, Tom Kaschak, Chuck Kudy, Diane Loppnow, Jack Loppnow, Art Maes, and Ed Riebe

Roof Work Resumes!

Reports from our roofing contractor, Noffke, indicate that work on the roof may begin again in April, weather permitting.

AMIS Update

AMIS's theme is Blessed to Be a Blessing. Our funds are small, but we voted to donate to the ELCA Disaster Response, where the money will be sent to Ukraine. We pray that you have done the same.

More Than a Roof Campaign Update

With joy and gratitude, the campaign steering committee is thrilled to announce that as of March 19, the total pledged for the campaign is $681,858!

We are grateful for everyone who has responded to support this critical work.

From Ascension Human Resources

We are continuing to seek a food pantry coordinator to fill the opening we have resulting from the retirement of David DeHayes. This is a very important service to our community. Increasing prices and the pandemic have placed difficult burdens on families with limited resources. This ministry has been active through the pandemic and families have become dependent on the food provided. Ascension has a dedicated corps of volunteers who bag and hand out these groceries at a drive-through event in our parking lot. They will testify that this is a wonderful way to serve.

Our food pantry distributes food on the 1st and 3rd Thursday mornings of the month. General responsibilities of the coordinator include:

- Collection of food from local food donation organizations
- Management of collected food at Ascension
- Supervision of food pantry volunteers in the packing and distribution of food

This part-time position requires physical strength to lift food crates and a vehicle capable of transporting large boxes of food materials. It is subsidized with an hourly wage and a mileage allowance. This service has meant a great deal to area families that have suffered through the pandemic. We pray for a leader to come forward and continue this work.

Botanica & Gift Shop

National Avenue is home to many entrepreneurs. It is also where you can find Botanica & Gift Shop, specializing in spiritual products and services. CSNI talked with business owner Daniel Saucedo about his business and the inspiration for it. “Since childhood, it has always been my dream to start my own business,” Saucedo recalled. “I credit my entrepreneurial spirit to my mother who created and sold candles in my hometown of Honduras [...] My upbringing was filled with nature and our family embraced the healing elements that the Earth provides for those suffering with an ailment. As an adult, I have continued to lean on and grow my spiritual practices and when I decided to start my own business it felt like a clear choice.”

Originally located on Cesar E. Chavez Drive for several years, Saucedo moved his business to National Avenue & 22nd Street, where he has enjoyed getting to know his many neighbors and their businesses. He said that by far most of his customers come in through word of mouth or just sheer interest in seeing the store from the street. “We offer various spiritual products as well as spiritual help—my store is truly unique in this way, because it provides customers with not only products but tools that are not found at other botanica shops in Milwaukee.”

When asked what advice he has for other business owners in the area, Saucedo had the following to say: “Never think you will not be able to have your own business and that as soon as they lay the first stone of their business, help from the community and business neighbors will be made available to support their business venture. I want entrepreneurs to know that their dreams, plans and projects can become a reality.”

Botanica’s website is currently under development, but people can find their products at 2200 W. National Avenue. Clarke Square residents can receive a 10% discount on incense sticks for the month of April. Want to learn more about Botanica?
